Tighter Skirts For Fashionable 1913

Again the creators of fashion have decreed that the skirt for the fashionable women of 1913 are to be narrower than ever. For some women it will be rather a difficult task to make them any narrower than they have been this winter.

Dame Fashion who is at present carrying the nome de plume of Ann Rittenhouse, Worth, Drecol, and several others just as attractive, and authoritative, savs that the street skirts are to me a little longer than they were last spring but they will not be tcc long. They must be buttoned in the front. The width around the bottom is to be so narrow that many of them will have to be slashed so that the wearer may wala with comfort.

An illustration of this mode was brought to Honolulu the other day by a lady who was passing through on one of the large boats. Her model was rather too exagerated for Honolulans as it was slit about a foot from the bettom both at the front and back of the skirt. Ann Rittenhouse suggests that these slasnes be hidden with false plaits.

There is to be a decided change in the waists. They are to sav the least guaranteed the name of style and chic. The collars will be high at the comfort. back and low at the front, and the sleeves will be very long with long lace ruffles at the wrist.

When speaking of the evening gewns, Miss Rittenhouse says that they must have an oriental slash in the front. The majority of them will have the long narrow train that gives the wearer a graceful appearance, The young girl will wear evening gowns that the extremely narrow at the bottom and the draperies over the hips will give her very straight lines These fashions will be very pretty and graceful and will no doubt be adopted in Hawaii as well as in the east but they will give the wearer no comfort. One of the reasons for this is that the Honolulu women will not wear the slits and slastes in their skirts but will in all probability wear the ultra narrow models,

-Gradually most of the Honolulu women are coming out of their very conventional shells and are adopting the fads and fancies of their sisters in the east but there are still a number of little things that have not merited their full approval. One of these is the cut skirt. Some years ago when the Directoire ladies wore a becoming stash at the lower left side of their skirts Honolulu's society women snook their heads in grave disapproval and though they wore a semi-directoire skirt none of them were ultra fashionthe. It is not unlikely then that they will feel the same towards the new
